The price ranges for both acid and rennet casein held steady this week. Contacts report demand for acid casein remains light in Oceania, but exports from the region are steady. In Oceania, acid casein production is limited, as milk output remains seasonally light. Contacts report acid casein production schedules are primarily focused on fulfilling contractual demand, limiting spot availability. Spot loads of rennet casein are available for purchase in Europe. Contacts in Europe say demand for rennet casein is softening somewhat in the region, but interest from purchasers in other markets is steady. Declining seasonal milk output is contributing to lighter rennet casein production.
