Acid casein prices slid lower across the range this week. Meanwhile, the bottom of the rennet casein range was unchanged, but the top moved downward. In Oceania, domestic demand for acid casein is steady. Export demand for acid casein from the region is said to be lackluster and down compared to this time last year. Acid casein production is steadily increasing, along with milk output in Oceania. Contacts say acid casein production is outpacing demand, and inventories are available for spot purchasing. Demand for rennet casein is steady to lighter. Some contacts suggest this is contributing to growing rennet casein inventories in Europe. Production of rennet casein is steady.
